

Disabilities

Relevant articles from MA Healthcare journals to support your staff's education and practice

December 2017

There are approximately 11 million people in the UK who have some form of disability, and require many different levels of care from the UK healthcare system. As it is an issue NHS workers will commonly encounter today, we have provided a list of relevant articles from MA Healthcare journals dealing with the issue of both physical and mental disabilities, thereby providing NHS staff with research, information and tips that will support both their work and the care of their patients
